

architecture. The throughput-based priority performance metric is: only one objective!

- (Perf1) Maximum simulated years per wall-clock day of the coupled system running without I/O.

This includes the ACME target of five simulated years per wall-clock day (SYPD), and the required performance by each component that is needed to achieve that target. Because I/O performance is simulation-